Targeted E-shot to Recruitment Database

£1,500

We find the most successful route to reaching the ideal applicant and improving the response rate to job advertisements is via a Targeted E-Shot.

We have the ability to target our recruitment database by their interests of working within; locations, job sector, and level of seniority.

The targeted E-shot is offered as an add-on to any job listing on www.jobs-in-transport.com.

We will use the advert text, organisation logo, salary, and images to create the E-shot.

We particularly recommend this option for organisations with more than one vacancy.

When I decided to look for a new job in transport, Jobs in Transport was my first port of call, and within seconds I saw a job that suited me in a location close to home. I am now in that job, working as a consultant within the development transport planning sector in the North West of England. I have always found Jobs in Transport to be a great resource for the transport professional, providing reliable and up to date job information.

Tom Reader
Transport Planner
Axis

I've worked in the transport planning field for 13 years, the last five of which have been in management level roles at first Trafford Council, and then Transport for Greater Manchester. Both these roles I have found stimulating, challenging and enjoyable, and I spotted both initially on Jobs in Transport. In my experience, it's the best place for jobs online within the transport planning sector.

Dominic Smith
Cycling Infrastructure Manager
Transport for Greater Manchester

I've been a member of Jobs in Transport for many years and like the way you can quickly scan through different disciplines and areas of the country - and rest of the world - to seek a suitable post.

I've gained employment with consultants and Local Authorities over the years I've visited the site to progress my career.

Les Henry
Principal Transport Development Planning Officer
Surrey County Council
